Type of text: CV SummaryTitle:

Dr. Andrea Murru is a clinical psychiatrist and researcher in the Depressive and Bipolar Disorders Unit, as well as the Sleep Disorders Unit, at the Hospital Clínic de Barcelona (Spain). Since April 2021 he is the Research Coordinator of the Clinical Institute of Neurosciences of the same hospital.

Currently, he is a clinical professor at the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Barcelona, a professor in the Master of Sleep Disorders and in the Master of Translational Medicine, both held by the University of Barcelona.

In 2007 he joined the Bipolar Disorders Unit of the Hospital Clínic de Barcelona, completing a Master in Neurosciences and an international doctorate (concluded with honor and international mention) at the University of Barcelona, also dealing with the writing of the Clinical Guidelines Management of Bipolar Disorders for the Generalitat de Catalunya.

His main areas of interest are the early and differential diagnosis, the clinic, and the pharmacological treatment of bipolar disorders, especially in the long term, especially of complex forms of the disease. The clinical aspects of the management of patients with poor adherence to treatment represent a special interest, deepened during the doctoral thesis work.

His scientific activity is observed in approximately 100 international scientific publications, aimed at diagnostic, clinical management, and treatment aspects of bipolar and schizoaffective disorder.

Likewise, he has reviewed several articles for different scientific journals of the first quartile and decile as well as for the National Agency for Evaluation and Prospective (ANEP), the prestigious Cochrane Library.

Since March 2016 he has been part of the multidisciplinary team of the Sleep Unit of the Hospital Clínic in research aspects related to sleep disorders and affective disorders.

He is currently directing his research activity towards translational aspects related to sleep disturbances and circadian rhythms in bipolar and schizoaffective disorders.

Dr. Murru has shown an undeniable vocation to didactics and training: -He teaches the Master of Sleep Disorders and the Master of Translational Medicine, both at the University of Barcelona. -He maintains an active role in both the clinical training of medical students and psychiatry trainees. -He has worked as a recognized and certified tutor giving support and training to students and residents of the University of Cagliari (Italy), Siena (Italy), Perugia (Italy), and in the Bipolar Disorders Unit of the Hospital Clínic de Barcelona. -He has been invited by the University of Cairo as organizer and speaker of seminars aimed at pre- and post-doctoral researchers at the University of Cairo (Egypt). -He has participated as a speaker/evaluator in seminars aimed at predoctoral researchers from the European College of Neuropsychopharmacology (the largest and important of Europe). -He has participated as a speaker in refresher courses promoted by the Hospital Clínic de Barcelona and aimed at both psychiatric residents and specialists, from Spain and different Latin American Countries.
